

CASE STUDY

A leading engineering consultancy in the data centre sector needed experienced commissioning professionals to support a major live project workload.

THE CHALLENGE

- Large commissioning work scope
- Tight project delivery deadlines
- Permanent hiring proving difficult
- Immediate need for site-ready staff

THE OUTCOME

We supported the team with both permanent and contract hires, filling seven contract positions and three permanent roles across commissioning and QA/QC disciplines. The project team was able to maintain momentum and keep delivery on track.

OUR APPROACH

We worked closely with the commissioning leadership team to understand the project demands and the experience required on site. Using our existing network of pre-screened commissioning professionals, we introduced people who could mobilise quickly and contribute immediately.

THE IMPACT

With experienced people joining the project quickly, the team was able to meet demanding delivery timelines and manage a challenging workload confidently. The partnership has since led to further support discussions for three upcoming projects later in the year.

“You struck gold with him.”

“We need to fast-track this guy and get him onboarded, he is great.”

“She interviewed really well, we really like her and can't wait to get her started.”
